Course Description
This course is an introduction to philosophical thinking about ethics and value, that is, about what is good, right, fair, and just, in life and in society. In this course we'll approach broader ideas about ethics and value through consideration of specific topics, including famine relief, euthanasia, animal rights, abortion, income inequality, sexism, racism, surrogacy, sex work, and environmental ethics. This course does not endorse any particular conclusions about the topics under consideration. Rather, the idea is to give you conceptual tools that will enable you make sense of various ethical and political disagreements and debates you'll encounter through life; the ultimate aim is to help you develop, and intelligently defend, your own views.

I will post study questions on LEARN ahead of time for each week's reading and you should come to class having given some thought to these. Course announcements and information will be on the LEARN page so please check it daily.

If you have questions about the syllabus, the course, the requirements, the assignments, or anything else to do with this course, please do not hesitate to ask at any time!

Information on Plagiarism Detection
No formal or technological plagiarism detection mechanisms will be used in this class.
Electronic Device Policy

There is no formal policy against the use of laptops or tablets in class, but there are two rules: 1) please do not use technology in ways that are distracting to me or to the other students and 2) please be mentally present for what is going on in the classroom. This means no videos, no social networking, no email, and no checking your phone during class. If you must use your phone, please leave the classroom.

Etiquette

Please feel free to call me "Patricia." Or you can call me "Professor Marino" or "Dr. Marino" if you prefer.

Attendance Policy

Though attendance is not part of your assessment, in practice you have to be in class to understand the material. If you have to miss class you are responsible for finding out what content you missed.
Cross-listed course
Please note that a cross-listed course will count in all respective averages no matter under which rubric it has been taken. For example, a PHIL/PSCI cross-list will count in a Philosophy major average, even if the course was taken under the Political Science rubric.

Academic Integrity

Academic Integrity: In order to maintain a culture of academic integrity, members of the University of Waterloo are expected to promote honesty, trust, fairness, respect and responsibility.

Discipline: A student is expected to know what constitutes academic integrity, to avoid committing academic offences, and to take responsibility for his/her actions. A student who is unsure whether an action constitutes an offence, or who needs help in learning how to avoid offences (e.g., plagiarism, cheating) or about “rules” for group work/collaboration should seek guidance from the course professor, academic advisor, or the Undergraduate Associate Dean. When misconduct has been found to have occurred, disciplinary penalties will be imposed under Policy 71 – Student Discipline. For information on categories of offenses and types of penalties, students should refer to Policy 71 - Student Discipline.

Grievance: A student who believes that a decision affecting some aspect of his/her university life has been unfair or unreasonable may have grounds for initiating a grievance. Read Policy 70 - Student Petitions and Grievances, Section 4.

Appeals: A student may appeal the finding and/or penalty in a decision made under Policy 70 - Student Petitions and Grievances (other than regarding a petition) or Policy 71 - Student Discipline if a ground for an appeal can be established. Read Policy 72 - Student Appeals.

Accommodation for Students with Disabilities
The AccessAbility Services office, located on the first floor of the Needles Hall extension (NH 1401), collaborates with all academic departments to arrange appropriate accommodations for students with disabilities without compromising the academic integrity of the curriculum. If you require academic accommodations to lessen the impact of your disability, please register with the AS office at the beginning of each academic term.
